MAKE TIME TO TALK WORKSHOPS FOR
QUESTIONS WITHOUT NOTICE
6 – JAN 2009

COMMUNITY MEMBERS INVITED ONSTAGE FOR CONTEMPORARY DANCE PREMIERE AT PLAYHOUSE THEATRE – NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY!

Performing Lines WA is on the lookout for members of the community ages 12 and up to join the dancers from Questions Without Notice onstage this February – no experience necessary!

Guided by one of Western Australia's most renowned choreographers, Sue Peacock, and eight of Australia's most progressive dance artists, participants will learn the simple steps of dance bingo in a free two hour workshop at the Western Australian Academy of Performing Arts and then take their new skills to the stage in front of a live audience for one night only at Playhouse Theatre.

All workshop participants receive a free ticket to the show and will be on stage in groups of ten for five minutes only. The moves are simple and no previous dance or performance experience is required! All you need is enthusiasm and a willingness to make time to have fun.

Bookings close Friday 16th January and workshops commence Thursday 22nd January.

Questions Without Notice

What are you afraid of? Will you be mine? What do you look forward to?

QWN is a multi-art form performance using dance, live-feed video and a constantly evolving sound score to explore life's big questions.

With her trademark flair for creating unconventional contemporary dance, choreographer Sue Peacock is joined by eight of WA's most progressive artists to tackle issues that confront us every day from infancy to old age.

This is a quirky and honest look at relationships.

Questions Without Notice is proudly sponsored by Healthway promoting Relationships Australia's make time to talk message.
